

A Every child contributes exposure; only some contribute an event

Each bar is one child, from birth until observation ends. Bar length is that child's exposure. Grey lines mark the eight DHS age segments; the dashed line is the fifth birthday.

B The same children after the person-period expansion

One cell per child per segment it entered; numbers are months of exposure contributed. Blank cells are ages the child had not reached, about which the model is told nothing.

